GENERAL COMMENTS

Instructor

First, while your inclusion of the GitHub.com reference in your preproduction materials document has enabled you to narrowly escape charges of Academic Misconduct, it is nevertheless the case that all of the code presented in your Artefact video is taken from these two GitHub pages:

<https://github.com/shubham5351/Fake-Review-Detection-/blob/main/FakeReviewModel.ipynb>

<https://github.com/shubham5351/Fake-Review-Detection-/blob/main/app.py>

This in itself is enough to invalidate most, if not all, credit due for the Artefact, as the work is clearly not your own. In addition, a mere reference to GitHub.com is not a sufficient reference, as GitHub.com includes literally millions of pages. Note also that the Preproduction Materials document is for a separate assessment and is thus not the correct place for such references.

Second, what you have submitted is really only the Documentation portion of the list of deliverables in the brief. That list asked not only for Documentation but also for the Artefact itself, 'delivered as an executable', and including 'any available project files submitted via Google Drive'.

For the above stated reasons, the submission unfortunately cannot achieve a Pass mark.
